“ What I remember most is the FAMILY MAN. As his brother I can tell you that he got that from our dad. They both understood commitment and the stability needed for fatherhood.

When Karen & Dave were born, I remember their Baptism. When he joined the Navy, we visited him Near Great Lakes base. When he bought his first house, I remember going there with him and Dad to help paint the walls. While I was in college, I visited them from time to time, allowing me some feeling of security during my great adventure away from home.

And on to Texas. There was our parents' 50th. Wedding Anniversary that he and Carol hosted. Then a family get together at their house during which we plotted a trip to San Fransisco! It started with the suggestion of that destination that I had made half-jokingly. But when mom heard it, her eyes lit up and that pretty much clinched it. Later, Chuck took me aside and said, "the next time you're joking, tell ME." Nonetheless, on to SF we flew.

Throughout it all, there was Chuck, The Shutterbug, duly and expertly recording moments of family history. I admired him for it, though I sometimes tried to escape the lens for fear of cracking it (let's just say, I'm camera shy). Ultimately, it ceased to be a mere hobby and became his chosen profession. We had exactly one uncle with the entrepreneurial spirit. It is a trait that I can only admire and respect for the courage and tenacity that it takes. Traits that I find sorely deficient in myself. THEY can be proud. I can only stand back and admire.

Those were the best years in my mind. Before heart disease and the isolation of hearing loss. They will remain my fondest memories and the foundation of the respect and admiration I have for Chuck.

Yep, he was a family man, and we're all better off for it.
