She eventually settled here in Texas living in Tomball, Spring, Trinity, and the finally in then Woodlands. Deborah worked in the auto industry doing accounting work. She enjoyed spending time with her family and friends, fishing, playing card games, and recently in the last few years really enjoyed playing (and winning) bingo.

“ Too many memories to share Aunt Deb. We may not have agreed when it came to politics, but we are alot alike. I have the best memories from my college days because of you. Heck if it wasn't for you feeding me I would of starved. Driving back roads, fishing instead of working/class 🤔long talks, and cannot forget about you always trying to set me up with some "great" guy. I love you and miss you and will see you again. Until then watch over us down here on crazy earth.

“ The Mallory family was part of my extended family growing up. Debbie was my first bestfriend, living next door to me in Venezuela. I recall waiting that 6 months until her family caught up with us in Tripoli. I was so lonely without my bestie. We were inseparable for the next 6 years, until the 6 day war.

My heart goes out to you Bridgett, Patti, Ken and Kirk.
