I'm sorry for your loss! She was a great chiropractor. The best infact I've ever had. I remember thinking the least ng wait in the waiting room was so long but when I got in there she was so patient and kind. She fix my back from a whiplash. I missed her and was thinking about her. I pray you all know Jesus. I see she had found him. He truly is the one who understands our grief and can help us through the toughest of times.

But, he also knows how to give us joy, and so much love for others even when they don't deserve it. When our eyes are opened to the truth anything is possible. ❤️🙏🎁
