“ I visited my uncle Billy in the summer of 1994. He was halfway on my road trip to New Orleans. At the time, he was living in a small house in Oconnee county GA. While all of his neighbors were wearing tank tops (they shouldn't have been), shorts and flip flops, Billy wore sperries and ironed blue jeans with a crease down the front! He cooked steak on the grill, we drank beer and Sunkist. Billy only drank three liquids: beer, Sunkist (do they still make that?) and coffee. He smoked unfiltered camel cigarettes which he claimed were healthier than filtered cigarettes.

Billy loved dogs: I recall visiting him in Houston Texas. He was feeding what he thought were stray dogs. “They have orange eyes” he said. I think they were coyotes or dingoes! There will be many canines waiting for him at the rainbow bridge. He was a character and he will be missed.
